Subscription contract for Internet connection through MultiNet AS ### 1. Customer, user and subscription.

In the following, the term Customer denotes the physical or legal person who has signed the subscription with MultiNet AS. User is a physical person, identical or not with the Customer, or whom the Customer has granted access to the subscription. The Customer is responsible for all Users and for these Users to live up to the terms of this agreement.

Subscription with MultiNet AS belongs to the Customer, and cannot be delegated to others without prior written approval by MultiNet AS.

2. Services

What services included in the subscription with MultiNet AS will vary over time. MultiNet AS will aim at delivering a vast, varied and reliable range of services, but MultiNet AS reserve all rights to expand, alter and limit the range of services without prior warning to the Customer. The service belongs to the area of data communication and typical services are electronic mail, information download and access to archives of software and information.

3. Payment

The Customer binds himself/herself to pay the fees in force for his/her subscription type. Increase in price will not occur in the middle of an agreement period. Charging of fixed subscription fees, settlement for time consumption and for other periodical services must be payed within 14 days from the time of billing, unless other written agreements have been made.

If the Customer receives an invoice he/she believes to be erroneous, complaints must be brought forward within three weeks upon the receipt of said invoice.

4. Responsible for use of the subscription

The Customer is obligated to keep his/her username and password secret, so that no one can gain access to this. If the Customer at any time suspects that a subscription password is known to intruders, the Customer is obligated to report this as soon as possible to MultiNet AS via e-mail to drift@multinet.no, or by phone, thus minimizing possible damage.

5. Customs

The Customer is required to behave properly during use of the services, including staying within the bounds of use of the services described more closely below.

MultiNet AS gives free access to the world wide Internet. On the Internet a set of implied rules for customary behavior (known as netiquette) prevail, but there is no central command or control. All users of MultiNet AS are obligated to acquaint themselves with these customs of the Internet, and to adapt their use of the net from these. This especially applies to the use of e-mail and Usenet News.

Abuse of net resources, including mass transmission of advertisement through Usenet News or e-mail will not be tolerated. Nor will use of the net to spread or advertise for chain letters, chain letter-like lotteries and MLM (Multi Level Marketing). It is also not permitted to use MultiNet AS' services to spread computer viruses, copyrighted software, defamation and/or offensive material (including racism and pornography) and anything else in violation of Norwegian legislation. Common sense and common courtesy are good starting points for behaviour on the net. More information on custom can be found at MultiNet AS' homepage, address <http://www.multinet.no/>

6. Liability and protection of information

MultiNet AS assumes no liability for direct or indirect consequences of the Customer's use of the services delivered, no matter the reason. The Customer is himself/herself liable for the use of his/her subscription.

MultiNet AS is obligated to secure the Customer's data in the best way possible. This involves regularly making backups of data, in addition to general securing of data against unlawful access, but MultiNet AS is not liable for loss or damage of such information. Furthermore, Multinet AS will at all times aim at securing all information that the Customer himself/herself does not make accessible to others against unauthorized access, duplication or other unwanted activity. However, MultiNet AS does not assume liability for this kind of securing of information.

It is not permitted to make attempts at guessing passwords or acquire passwords to other MultiNet users' accounts, as well users of other computers on the Internet. The same restriction applies to other attempts at breaching security on computers connected to the Internet.

7. Notification of disruption of operation.

MultiNet AS is obligated to supply a stable and safe service, with as few disruptions of operation as possible. All planned disruptions of operation are to be given notice of in advance, and this will be done through MultiNet's homepage under the page titled Messages for our subscribers (<http://www.multinet.no/kundeinfo/meldinger.en.phtml>). Irregular disruptions of operation will also be reported on this page.

8. Configuration of net based services

Users are not permitted to install, compile or set up net based services on their account prior to making contact with MultiNet AS to obtain permission. This applies to all client/server based software making use of the Internet, and applies to both the client and server part of such software. We call attention to that IRC robots (so-called "bots") and FTP servers and clients are also included in this restriction. Normally we allow these activities, but they must first be given formal clearance through e-mail to drift@multinet.no.

9. Private homepages

Customers have the opportunity to have their own, private WWW homepages in their file area at MultiNet AS. These pages may contain presentations of oneself, hobbies, interests and similar. Commercial presentations, including presentations of companies and sales products, or presentations of associations that receive public support and/or claim fees from their members, can only be published subsequent to a separate agreement with MultiNet AS.

10. Norwegian penal code, civil prosecution

Connection with MultiNet AS shall not be used for activities that may be affected by Norwegian penal code or open for civil prosecution.

11. Duration and notice to quit

The subscription runs until it is terminated in writing by one of the parties. The Customer can at any time terminate his subscription, but remaining paid-up subscription fees will not be refunded at such a termination.

If this agreement is breached, MultiNet AS reserves the right to block the subscription for use until the affair has been clarified. At repeated or severe breaches of this agreement MultiNet AS can terminate the customer relationship. At such a termination, MultiNet AS is not obligated to refund subscription fees for the remainder of the agreement period.
